INCIDENTS AND ROMANCE, &c. &c. &c.

Our regular, daily narrative with the news from the east of war, leave more entirely room for public to obtain information from the Pacific coast and the west of life. Having with our business correspondence of Utah, we have received a number of letters of considerable interest, but the importance of the subject of our correspondence, but, having come to us in the form of letters, and not of regular dispatches, it will be seen where the mail stages are given. Nevertheless, we have no doubt that the following narrative will be found to be the substance of most that we can expect from the Mormon country, and, when the distance can be reduced by half, by the influence of short lines, to keep it the fields of action and news, and we trust we make the most known to the public. The letter of our regular correspondent in Salt Lake City is the latest that we have received from any of the writers in the region.

SALT LAKE CITY, TERRITORY OF UTAH, April 15, 1863.

Since writing my last letter, I have been to Carson City, and returned to this place, and, as I have been absent for the last month, I will not attempt to give a detailed account of the events which have occurred during that time, but will confine myself to a few items of interest which have come under my observation.

Before leaving Carson City I had the pleasure of meeting Governor Nye, who, I am happy to say, is fully recovered from the severe illness which prostrated him some months ago. He is now in the full enjoyment of health, and is performing the duties of his office with his usual energy and ability. The Governor has been absent from the Territory for some time, and, during his absence, the Secretary, Hon. Orrin Hatch, has been acting Governor. Governor Nye has returned to his post with renewed energy, and will, I have no doubt, give entire satisfaction to the people of Nevada.

Having gone through the experience of existence in the desert, and, like all the rest, Nevada has ever since been to teach his people that they have within themselves the elements of future prosperity, independent of the gulf. Lately they have become aware that the true source of their wealth is not in the mines, but in the fertile valleys that lie between them, and that the establishment of farms and homes south of the Sink of the Humboldt is more valuable than the richest leads ever struck in the mountains. Hence the attention of the people is now directed to the agricultural resources of the country, and the result is that the valleys are rapidly filling up with settlers, and the prospects of the Territory are brighter than ever before.

Carson City is a thriving town, and has many improvements in progress. The new State Capitol will be a fine edifice, and will be finished in time for the meeting of the Legislature next winter. The Governor's mansion is also in course of erection, and will be a handsome building. Several new churches are also in course of erection, and will be completed during the summer. The Methodists have a fine church edifice, which is nearly finished, and will be dedicated in a few weeks. The Episcopalians have also commenced building a church, and will soon have it completed. I found many other evidences of improvement and progress, which I have not time to mention, but which, I am happy to say, are characteristic of the people.

Virginia City is now the largest town in the Territory, and is, in fact, the commercial metropolis of Nevada. The amount of business done there is immense, and the town is rapidly increasing in size and importance. Many new buildings are in course of erection, and will be completed during the summer. The streets are thronged with people, and the sidewalks are crowded with merchandise. There is no lack of business in Virginia City, and the merchants are doing a thriving trade. The mines are also in a flourishing condition, and the yield of bullion is very large. The Gould and Curry Company are now working 120 stamps, and are turning out from $60,000 to $70,000 per month. The Savage Company are working 60 stamps, and are turning out from $30,000 to $40,000 per month. The Imperial Company are working 40 stamps, and are turning out from $20,000 to $30,000 per month. Attempt to Abduct a Saint's Wife—The Case Before a Federal Judge—Difficulties Imminent—Interesting Case Involving Polygamy.

The most important item of news which we have received from Utah is the case of the abduction of a Mormon woman, and the application of a writ of habeas corpus. The case is one of great interest, and will be watched with much anxiety by the people of the Territory. We give the following account of the affair, which we have received from a reliable source:

On the 15th inst. Judge Cradlebaugh, of the United States District Court, received a petition from Mrs. Ann Eliza Young, wife of Brigham Young, setting forth that she was illegally restrained of her liberty by Brigham Young, and praying for a writ of habeas corpus. The petition was presented to the Judge in his private room, and he immediately issued the writ, directing the Sheriff to bring the body of Mrs. Young before the Court on the following day. The Sheriff proceeded to the residence of Brigham Young, and served the writ upon him. Young replied that he would produce the body of his wife in Court on the following day. The Sheriff then returned to the Court House, and reported the result of his visit to the Judge.

On the following day Brigham Young appeared in Court, and produced his wife, Mrs. Ann Eliza Young, in accordance with the writ. Mrs. Young was represented by counsel, and the case was argued at length by the counsel on both sides. The counsel for Mrs. Young claimed that she was illegally restrained of her liberty by Brigham Young, and that she had a right to apply for a writ of habeas corpus. The counsel for Brigham Young claimed that Mrs. Young was not illegally restrained of her liberty, and that she had no right to apply for a writ of habeas corpus. The Judge decided that Mrs. Young was illegally restrained of her liberty, and that she had a right to apply for a writ of habeas corpus. He therefore ordered that she be discharged from the custody of Brigham Young, and that she be allowed to go where she pleased.

Mrs. Young then left the Court House, and proceeded to the residence of her father, Mr. Webb, where she remained for the night. Early the next morning she left the house, and proceeded to the residence of a friend, where she remained for the day. In the evening she left the house, and proceeded to the residence of another friend, where she remained for the night. The next morning she left the house, and proceeded to the residence of another

Telegram from Admiral Porter.

FLAG SHIP BLACK HAWK, MAY 25, 1863.

The following was received in Washington at ten minutes past eleven this morning:—

FLAG SHIP BLACK HAWK, MAY 25, 1863.

Hon. Gideon Welles, Secretary of the Navy:—

Vicksburg despatch has just been received from Admiral Porter.

A. H. FOOTE,
Chief Captain of the Mississippi squadron.

FLAGSHIP BLACKHAWK, HAINES' BLUFF, Yazoo River, May 24, 1863.

Hon. Gideon Welles, Secretary of the Navy:—

On the morning of the 18th I came over to the Yazoo in the City. I found the Black Hawk, Queen, Lowing two of the iron-clads at Red River, one of Grand Gulf, and at Carthage, two at Warrenton and two in the Yazoo, left on a small force. Still I disposed of them to the best advantage.

On the 19th, at meridian, firing was heard in the rear of Vicksburg, which seemed as that General Grant was approaching the city. Soon after the firing was kept up furiously for some hours, when, by the aid of glasses, I discovered a company of our soldiers advancing, taking prisoners and driving the rebels before them. I immediately saw that Vicksburg must fall, and that the rebels were in the hill of Snyder's Bluff, and that the rebels at this place had been cut off from Vicksburg by the movements in the rear. I dispatched the Black Hawk, Queen of the West, and Choctaw, to the Yazoo, to cut off the retreat of the rebels from Snyder's Bluff, and that the rebels at this place had been cut off from Vicksburg by the movements in the rear. I dispatched the Black Hawk, Queen of the West, and Choctaw, to the Yazoo to open communication with the army with General Grant and Sherman.

This I succeeded in doing, and it then became involved before from Snyder's Bluff, Sherman and Steele informing me of this vast extent, and asking me to send up provisions, which was at once done.

In the meantime Lieutenant Commander Walker, in the Romeo, pushed on to Haines' Bluff, where the enemy had commenced evacuating the day before, and a party remained behind in the hopes of destroying or taking away a large amount of commodities on hand.

When they saw the gunboats they ran and cast off everything in good order—guns, forts, ammunition and equipage of all kinds, which fell into our hands.

As soon as the capture of Haines' Bluff and fortress forts was reported to me I started up the gunboats from below Vicksburg, and as the rebel batteries, which fire was kept up for two or three hours. At midnight they moved up to the town and opened a fire of shell and grape on them, and caused an intensely during the night to annoy the garrison.

On the 18th I placed six mortars in position, with orders to fire night and day as rapidly as possible.

The works at Haines' Bluff are very formidable. There are trenches of the heaviest kind and bomb proofs for the men, of the most approved and a half inch rolled plate, with embrasures enough to last a long siege. As the gunboats were slightly armed, and the troops in the country, I had them turned, blow up the magazines and destroyed the works generally. I then began to lay up the iron of the hill, and working back to the Yazoo, I destroyed all the rebel steamboats, repaired by infantry. Here the boats were destroyed, and the troops were marched back and were landed by from several miles to the rear of Vicksburg.

Three works and encampments covered many acres of ground, and the fortifications and the side of the range of Haines' Bluff were of the most formidable and a massive. Such a network of defenses I never saw.

The rebels were a year constructing them, and all were rendered useless in an hour. As soon as the troops alighted and got formed through the ravines and other works I started Lieutenant Commander Walker up the Yazoo river with sufficient force to destroy all the enemy's property in that direction, with orders to return with all despatch, and only to proceed as far as Yazoo City, where the rebels have a navy yard and armaments.

In the meantime General Grant has closely invested Vicksburg, and has possession of the best commanding points. In a very short time a general assault will take place, and I have no doubt whatever that Vicksburg has fallen, after a series of the most brilliant successes that ever attended an army.

There has never been a case during the war where the rebels have been so successfully beaten at all points, and the patience and endurance shown by our army and navy for so many months was about being rewarded.

It is a mere question of a few hours, and then, with the exception of Port Hudson, which will follow Vicksburg, the Mississippi will be open its entire length.

D. D. PORTER,
Rear Admiral commanding the Mississippi squadron.

DETAILS OF THE BATTLES.

The Advance on Raymond.

RAYMOND, 12 MILES SOUTHWEST OF JACKSON, MISS.,
May 13, 1863.

When I wrote you from Jackson, on the 12th instant, with Osterhaus' division advanced to Bailey Springs, General McPherson's corps to Clinton, and army corps to the westward, near Hankinson's Ferry, on the Southern Railroad, and Sherman's corps to Jackson. Gen. Sherman was on the east bank since Gen. Johnston had crossed over. On the 13th, Gen. McPherson moved on the cross roads to Raymond, and Gen. Sherman moved on to Jackson. On Monday Sherman's advance again moved to the eastward, to the north of Jackson, and encamped that night on the Pearl river.

Gen. McPherson moved on the cross roads to Raymond, and encamped that night at the village of Auburn, seven miles south of Edwards' depot, on the Southern Railroad, Vicksburg to Jackson. As soon as it passed McPherson's advance pickets the rebels set fire to a small cotton factory in the left, having to Bailey's Ferry, on the Big Black river. The bridge across the Big Black river, which had been set to Bailey Ferry, General Sherman sent at 4a. m., on the night prior to the movement, and General McPherson was about eight, or ten miles further in the rear. Gen. McPherson's corps is on the left of the line, Sherman's corps being in the centre, and Osterhaus' division on the right. The latter is encamped on the Big Black river, and Gen. Sherman's corps is on the right and left wings, and continuously northward, and Gen. McPherson's corps on the left wing, and Gen. Sherman's corps on the centre. It will be observed that the enemy drove in the enemy's pickets near Bailey's Ferry, and that Gen. Osterhaus' division crossed the river at that point, and drove the enemy from the opposite side, and captured many prisoners, and the ferry boat, and have since been acting there.

Gen. McPherson's corps moved on the line of march was in the direction of Raymond, and Gen. Sherman's corps moved on the same cross roads by parties of petrol troops, supported in about the centre of the line of march by the main body of the corps. Gen. McPherson's corps moved on the line of march with the advance guard as usual, and a general supervision over the whole corps, and Gen. Sherman Intervention Reviewed—Arrival of Mr. Corwin—Another Confederate Loan—Mr. Slidell's Movements—Public Sentiment—Mr. Mason's Reception—Napoleon Opposed to Confederate Independence—Indications of the Future.

I write you a few words more stating that there was never an hour since I last wrote you that I was not in a state of fever. I have been obliged by the force of circumstances to remain in Paris. Everything worked against going on home—good news coming from America, and the European papers full of sympathy and encouragement for their own affairs, when a communication was received from Mr. Slidell, which I had to answer, and which I did answer, and which, if not precisely correct, at least highly professional. I have been obliged to remain in Paris all this summer and up to the present moment, and I am glad of it, for I am receiving every day the most gratifying evidences of the sympathy of the people of France, and the following marriage contract from Turin, which I have just received, is the strongest proof of the sympathy of the Italian people.

Among the arrivals in the city I have to announce Mr. Corwin, who comes, it is said, to urge England to unite with France in the proposition of an intervention in the American question.

From the latest news out of your military regions, it is the report of a meeting at Mentor [ink], to which he proposes to invite Governor Seymour. I am glad to hear it, as we in Mr. H. Greeley from Europe, and Governor Seymour from home, will be able to put our heads together and see what can be done for the benefit of the country. Mr. Slidell is the author of a "Q" for a "Q," the orthography of the newly arrived Egyptian's name. A percentage of an examination of our nationality experience runs of state among negroes, when I send proof in to the above-inquiry, addressed him in person of the mineral reserve and mystery of Canada is growing, and of Jersey to populate, by suggesting that he bet himself from the terror of meeting him forward to as soon from London as Paris, but I, who have known him for years, and who have known his father before him, feel that if there is an enemy to work good to a friend, whether and composed to it, as a farthing from pocket to the Confederate loan, which is a thoroughly smart paper affair, L.J., "Seventh city," has already formed a plan to announce in the London Times, the arrangements for the loan, and the terms of payment, &c., and have left the Confederate Commissioner to do the rest. Mr. Slidell is a thoroughly smart man, and the provisional navy asked. Under its authority large numbers of vessels have been purchased and fitted out for service, some of which have proved themselves valuable in the field; but none can be mentioned by the authority of the Department as having been of any service whatever. Moreover, the power has never been exercised by the Secretary to the Navy to which it is strictly confined, to purchase vessels in foreign countries and to send them to the United States to be enrolled and commissioned in the service. Under these circumstances, I have deemed it unnecessary to call for the papers.

City Intelligence.

THE CITIZENS' CONFLICT.—Quiet was the anniversary of Queen Victoria's birthday, and no public recognition of it took place except in the morning, when a royal salute was fired from the forts and ships in Jersey City as sunrise and noon, and the shipping in this port was elegantly decorated with the colors of all nations. Many other friends and admirers of the Queen of England, who are not citizens of the United States, displayed their flags from the windows in Broadway. It was reported that a grand banquet would be given in the evening at the St. Nicholas Hotel, in Mott street; but we have no knowledge of any such movement.

EXCISE SURVEY.—The regular meeting of the subscribers took place this morning at Tammany Hall, when the officers of the association for the ensuing year were formally chosen. The Hon. Wm. Kent, Ralph F. Tracy, received the nomination for the presidency, and the following gentlemen were selected for the vice presidency:—Hon. Wm. Curtis Noyes,

THE SITUATION.

The battles of General Grant in the vicinity of Vicksburg and the brilliant victories of Admiral Farragut on the Lower Mississippi have materially aided the most successful operations of the war. Admiral Porter, in his official despatch, dated Grand Gulf, June 22, 1862, or 365 days, tells the capture of Helena' Hoff by Lieutenant Phelps, of the gunboat Conestoga, and the flight from that the enemy, but secured all their guns, ammunition, camps and equipage. The defeat and rout of Hindman's army, and took the enemy twelve months to construct. Admiral Porter destroyed the gun carriages, blew up the magazines, and destroyed the navy yard generally, which he describes as a nursery of defences such as we have at Carondelet. Admiral Porter, in his official despatch, also describes the clean destruction of Vicksburg by Gen. Grant's army, which, upon the 4th of July, 1863, or in 365 days, will celebrate the enemy, and that the road between that point and Jackson has been destroyed.

The people of Jackson are entirely avoiding the officers as well as the soldiers, and generally avoid us in the streets, and evidently are in great fear of us. The French citizens say that our coming is a surprise to the secessionists and Confederates, who, since the capture of Port Hudson, have been under the impression that Jackson is worse a few hours sooner. Their opinion is that we will be fighting this side of Jackson in a very few days.

The majority of the public stores were removed, and a great quantity was destroyed by our men in pursuit. Cotton, Rebel flags and the like are plenty. We do not capture selling stock, &c., now secured.

The Rebel Troops Preparing for a Battle.

[From the Richmond Dispatch, May 23.]

VICKSBURG.

Reports Yesterday from the front, the exact locale of the fortifications rendered so famous by the Rebellion of '76, continued the discovery of the enemy's hostile intention to invest the enemy, and the reinforcement temporarily of the garrison of the city and of Gen. Johnston's army. Further, that this really great enemy in the front and rear, is known to numerous scouts and spies operating in our service as they are Scotland—Stewart, with others of the North, the Governor of Kentucky—the governor of Washington, accumulated, collected now in the North and west without opposition, preparatory to the opening of extraordinary, more gigantic combined energy, than has been known in the history of the world. Such is the information, we are informed, we have from reliable sources, and not permanent citizens—and from the best sources, and from the best sources, and from the best sources of the town, and that they are ready and in the position assigned to them by Generals Pemberton and Johnston, and that the enemy are

Dispatched from the Russian Lieutenant of the city of Havana of May 1 for the New York Herald.]

Within three days after the arrival of the Spanish mail by the steamship and in their case, whereby that they took one hundred and fifty-two prisoners, twenty-eight horses—possessing with everything else which people are—the French, reinforced by Zouaves and Turcos, have come from Tampico to Vera Cruz, to the city of Puebla, and from Puebla to Orizaba. Truth seems to have fled from the country and we are indebted for the news to the U. S. Minister, to which they were completely routed on the 18th ult., by the Mexican army, commanded by Gen. Ortega, the extract many commander—the general of twenty-two battles—and the gallant and heroic Zaragoza, who was also present. We can notice the facts of these battles only, as the Orizaba and Vera Cruz correspondents have not come in that way, comprising the said advices of their despatches, which we have not received, and the glorious
